* We are members of the PBFA association of booksellers and regularly exhibit at fairs around the country. Please see inside the back cover for a list of forthcoming fairs we would normally be attending.

* I am a member of various polar groups, including the Friends of SPRI, BAS Club the Devon and Cornwall Polar Society and the James Caird Society.

Welcome to our latest polar catalogue. We are now up to the letter U in the alphabet for our catalogue and this one is named after Urquhart (there are not too many polar U's !). He served as a marine on the HMS Assistance under Captain Erasmus Ommanney during the 1850-1 Franklin search expedition.

These times of the Covid pandemic are very odd for us all but we hope this finds you well and bearing up in whatever stage of lockdown you are. Like all polar enthusiasts, I have been reflecting on what we can learn from the experiences of those isolated in the polar regions and I have chosen several books to list which provide thoughts on how to cope with isolation.

I have separated Arctic from Antarctic books and have three different sections in this catalogue as follows:

- Pages 4 to 24 Antarctic Books
- Pages 25 to 36 Arctic Books
- Pages 37 to 42 Polar Ephemera

Clearer, colour pictures can be seen at www.kingsbridgebooks.co.uk

If the book you are looking for is not in this catalogue, then please get in touch as we do have many other books (and items of ephemera) not listed here. Please let us know if you would like more details about the content or condition of any of the books. Images can be emailed if required.

Happy hunting....and, above all, keep safe !

CLASSIC ARCTIC BOOK

181 Nares, Capt Sir GS Narrative of a Voyage to the Polar Sea during 1875-6 in HMS ships 'Alert' and 'Discovery' with notes on Natural History Sampson Low 1878 third edition (same year as first) two volumes 395+378 pp and adverts Six mounted real sepia photographs, seven full page illustrations, two folding maps (one in facsimile). Original publishers green cloth decorated in black and gilt. Firm binding resewn and rebacked with original spines. With cut signature of Nares from Stoneham House, Winchester. £525

An account of the last major British Arctic Expedition and the first since the Franklin Search Expeditions of the 1850s. The aim was to reach the North Pole by way of NW Greenland. The Alert attained a new Farthest North and much scientific work was carried out. The expedition was badly affected by scurvy and was forced to return. This account is enhanced by the inclusion of six original photographs (one of which shown here).

194 Ross,
Capt. John

A Voyage of Discovery, made under the orders of the Admiralty, in His Majesty's Ships Isabella and Alexander, for the Purpose of Exploring Baffin's Bay, and Enquiring into the Probability of a NW Passage.

John Murry 1819 FIRST EDITION

252pp + appendix Errata slip All plates, maps, charts and tables as called for Half leather with marbled boards and eps. Skillfully rebacked with old leather spine laid on. Four raised bands. Firm binding Generally very clean with only a little browning and offsetting Folding colour plates bright and clean.

Handsome, original copy

£2,850

Only the first edition of this book has all the aquatint plates and charts. Account of expedition which sailed along Greenland's west coast into Baffin's Bay encountering 'Arctic Highlanders' (Eskimos) for the first time. Assuming that Lancaster Sound was surrounded by land Ross turned south. A decision criticized by Parry, captain of the ship Alexander, who suspected Lancaster Sound was the route to the NW Passage and who led a highly successful expedition deep into the Sound in 1819-20

Hornby was a Harrow-educated Englishman who ran away to join the Indians in the Canadian North West. He was a T.E. Lawrence-like figure who cultivated personal suffering and endurance, but unlike Lawrence he was in fact fairly inept. In 1927, after 15 years in the bush, he was largely the cause of the death by starvation of himself, his 16 year old cousin, and the young Edgar Christian.
